OONCHAI — TEAS FROM THE TOP

Business Plan & Go-To-Market Strategy (v2)

One Himalayan leaf, many worlds · White-pink café, green-mountain brand · Advanced Competitive Strategy, Term IV

1. Executive Summary

Oonchai (ऊँचाई — "height") is a zero-plastic tea café built on one idea: India grows and exports some of the world's finest tea — so we serve the Himalayan leaf the way the whole world drinks it, under one roof. Kulhad masala chai anchors daily volume at street-honest prices (₹99–149); a wellness range (rose, chamomile, matcha, blue pea) and a five-stop World Tea Trail deliver the premium experience; the signature drink is Kashmiri Pink Noon Chai — naturally pink, genuinely Himalayan, and almost unseen in NCR.

Sustainability is the operating model, not a footnote: bamboo café built through direct farmer tie-ups, kulhads and bagasse serveware, BYO-flask −10%, a certified waste-management partnership that converts our spent leaves into compost and fuel, and a tree planted in the customer's name after every 10th tea. A live chalk Impact Board displays trees planted and kilograms of waste diverted — operations as marketing.

The loop: leaves come down from the Himalayas; trees go back up in your name.

2. Brand Identity

Name: Oonchai — ünchai (altitude) + chai. Tagline: Teas from the Top.

Concept line: One Leaf, Many Worlds.

Visual system: Petal White (#FBF5F3) + Blush Pink (#F3B8C6) café shell; green mountain badge logo (Deep Pine #1E4D3B, Himalayan Green #3E7C59, Mist Green #A8CBB2) — peaks rising out of a tea cup, summit steam curling into a leaf. Bamboo counter, chalk boards, terracotta kulhads. The pink of the café is echoed in the pink of the Noon Chai — palette and product agree.

The note we leave in the customer's mind: "My tea did something." Named tree certificates, a ticking Impact Board, a seed card they plant at home — proof, not promises.

3. USP & Strategic Positioning

USP in one line: The Himalayan leaf, served the way the world drinks it — zero-waste, and every 10th cup plants a tree in your name.

Three pillars:

Pillar	What it includes	Why it defends
Origin	Direct-sourced Himalayan leaves (Darjeeling / Kangra / Ilam belt); estate, altitude, season on the board	Supplier traceability takes seasons to build; chains sell convenience, not provenance
One Leaf, Many Worlds	India exports tea across the globe — we bring those serves home: masala kulhad (India), Pink Noon Chai & Kahwa (Kashmir), builder's brew (Britain), samovar-style (Russia), Irani chai (Gulf); plus wellness range & iced line	Experience breadth on an honest base claim — no botanical is mislabeled "Himalayan"; world styles, Himalayan leaf
Regeneration	Zero plastic; bamboo via farmer cooperatives; kulhads composted; certified waste partner (compost + briquettes); tree per 10th tea; BYO flask −10%; live Impact Board	Verified and visible — a running counter can't be greenwashed

Porter framing: focused differentiation with a low-price anchor product. The ₹99 kulhad chai competes on ritual and habit; the ₹179–249 range competes on experience. Milk chai funds footfall; the trail and wellness range fund margin.

ERRC: Eliminate plastic, paper menus, anonymous sourcing, gimmick props (no colour-changing theatre, no edible cups). Reduce menu clutter, décor spend. Raise provenance, serve ritual, price-to-experience ratio. Create Impact Board, tree-in-your-name loyalty, certified waste loop, Pink Noon Chai as a category-of-one signature.

4. Product & Pricing (revised — tiered, not uniform)

Line	S	M	L	Role
Himalayan Kulhad Chai (masala/adrak/elaichi)	₹99	₹129	₹149	Volume anchor — daily habit, tapri-to-café bridge
Signature: Kashmiri Pink Noon Chai	—	₹199	₹229	Category-of-one; pink drink in a pink café
Wellness hot (rose, chamomile, matcha, blue pea, kahwa)	₹169	₹199	₹229	Margin + differentiation
Iced teas (blue pea–lemon, peach, lemongrass-mint, rose sharbat, matcha cold brew)	—	₹199	₹229	Summer daypart, delivery
World Tea Trail (5-stop tasting flight)	—	₹249	—	Flagship experience, weekends

Cookie policy: free millet–jaggery cookie with every M and L; ₹29 add-on with S. Take-home leaf pouches ₹149–349 (retail layer). Chai Khaad compost pouch ₹49.

Price defence: the anchor now genuinely competes with Chaayos (₹120–150) while the experience range undercuts café chains (₹250–400). Nothing sits in no-man's-land.

5. Unit Economics (directional — validate with quotes)

Two economic engines:

	Anchor chai (M ₹129)	Wellness/Signature (M ₹199)
Leaves/botanicals + milk	₹19	₹34
Kulhad/serveware	₹5	₹5
Cookie	₹9	₹9
Tree provision (₹85/10 teas)	₹8.5	₹8.5
Misc	₹4	₹5
COGS / margin	~₹46 / ~₹83 (64%)	~₹62 / ~₹137 (69%)

Blended (60% anchor, 40% premium): contribution ≈ ₹105/cup. Fixed costs ~₹2.2L/month → break-even ≈ 2,100 cups/month ≈ 70 cups/day — higher than v1, but that is the point: the ₹99–129 anchor is designed to pull daily volume the old ₹199 anchor never could. Target 160 cups/day by Month 3 → ~₹2.8L monthly contribution.

Capex: ₹14–17 lakh (bamboo build, equipment, deposit, branding, launch inventory).

6. Sustainability Operating System

1. Zero plastic — absolute. Kulhads, bagasse/rice-husk takeaway, bamboo stirrers, steel in-café.
2. Bamboo via farmer cooperatives (North-East / Uttarakhand) — inclusive supply chain, build filmed as content.
3. Certified waste-management partnership. A licensed organic-waste partner collects spent leaves and kulhad shards; leaves become compost and biomass briquettes at their facility; we receive audited monthly diversion data for the Impact Board and buy back compost retailed as Chai Khaad (₹49). Honest framing: this is cost-neutral credibility infrastructure, not a profit line — at 4–5 kg/day, waste sale value is ₹1–2k/month; the return is free pickup, audit-proof impact claims, and brand story.
4. Tree per 10th tea, in the customer's name — verified NGO partner, geo-tagged e-certificate; seed-paper loyalty card the customer plants after redemption.
5. BYO flask −10% with a public refill tally.
6. No paper, no flex: chalk menus, chalk Impact Board, seed-paper cards.
7. Energy & water: insulated urns, solar-assisted lighting, greywater to plants.

Impact Board counters: trees planted in your names · kg waste diverted (compost + fuel, partner-audited) · kulhads returned to the earth.

7. Café Design Brief

White-pink shell, deep-pine signage, bamboo counter, symmetric chalk walls (Menu | Impact). The serve ritual is the theatre now: kulhad chai poured high, Noon Chai's pink reveal from the samovar-style pot, the trail flight on a bamboo board with five stamped cups (all reusable — India, Kashmir, Britain, Russia, Gulf). Staff trained to narrate each stop in one line. If it isn't chalk, bamboo, or seed paper, it doesn't enter the café.

8. Go-To-Market Strategy

Positioning statement: For urban 20–35s who want their daily tea to taste better and mean more, Oonchai serves the Himalayan leaf the way the world drinks it — zero-waste, honestly priced, with every 10th cup planting a tree in your name.

Phase 0 · Pre-launch (Day −30 → 0)

Bamboo build time-lapse; sourcing-trip founder story; Pink Noon Chai teaser ("the original pink drink is from the Himalayas"); Founding Grove — first 500 registrants named on the first 50 trees; campus ambassadors; soft-launch weekend with 100 free anchor chais.

Phase 1 · Launch (Day 0–30)

Hook: "Your 10th cup grows in the Himalayas." Weekday 8–11 am Office Kulhad Hour (M at S price with BYO flask) to cement the ₹99–129 habit loop. 15–20 micro-influencers on barter (World Tea Trail flight). PR angle: "The café built by bamboo farmers, where your chai waste becomes compost and fuel."

Phase 2 · Growth (Month 2–6)

Monthly Impact Report post (partner-audited numbers); seed-card loyalty; Swiggy/Zomato with iced line + leaf pouches; corporate kulhad-chai carts and Diwali gifting (pouches + seed cards); quarterly community planting day; weekday-evening tea-tasting workshops (₹499, redeemable).

Budget (₹25k/mo): IG content 45%, influencers/UGC 20%, campus & local activations 20%, listings/CRM 10%, buffer 5%.

KPIs: 160 cups/day by M3 · repeat ≥ 35% · anchor:premium mix 60:40 · BYO share ≥ 15% · trees/month · audited kg diverted · delivery AOV ≥ ₹450 · CAC < ₹60.

9. Risks & Mitigation

Risk	Mitigation
Anchor at ₹99–129 attracts volume but thins margin	Cookie free only on M/L; Office Hour drives M upgrades; premium mix target 40%
Higher break-even (70 cups/day)	Anchor pricing is built for exactly this volume; campus + office corridors chosen for footfall
"Himalayan" challenged on matcha/ chamomile	Claim restructured: Himalayan leaf base, world styles & botanicals — no mislabeling; Kangra green offered as the desi matcha option
Waste partnership seen as outsourced virtue	Partner audits published monthly; Chai Khaad buy-back closes the loop visibly in-store
Kulhad single-use critique	Defended as biodegradable + cultural; composted via partner; steel default in-café
Trail complexity	Five reusable cups, weekend-weighted, one narrated flight — no per-drink SKUs
Chain imitation	Farmer tie-ups, named estates, running tree counter, and Noon Chai authenticity can't be retrofitted credibly

10. 90-Day Roadmap

Weeks 1–3: estate + bamboo cooperative + NGO + waste-partner MOUs; location signed. Weeks 4–7: build (filmed), hiring, Noon Chai & trail R&D lock, licences. Weeks 8–9: pre-launch engine, Founding Grove. Week 10: soft launch. Weeks 11–13: full launch, first Impact Report, first 50 named trees.

Close for the viva: "Chaayos sells convenience, Starbucks sells status — Oonchai sells proof. One Himalayan leaf, served the way the world drinks it, and every tenth cup goes back up the mountain with your name on it."
